ASHGATE

GUILD BULLETIN

The merchants guild of Ashgate would like to issue the following bulletin. The continuing gang violence in and around the town has seen an interesting and possible profitable turn. The gang known as the Ashgate Antagonists has established a firm dominance over the area despite committing most of their resources to chasing a mysterious rumour of a treasure hoard. The tattered remnants of the Cawdor sponsored gang, the Holey Rollers, returned to town having been ambushed by the violent Van Saar gang in the tunnels of the underhive and the guild is speculating on their continued participation in the local turf wars. Informants also report that Delaque sponsored gang, the Shadow Asps, tried to take advantage on other conflicts to raid a supply dump used by the Antagonists but their obtuse strategies backfired on them and the gang limped away without making a lasting dent to the Antagonists progress. Other news indicates that several gangs have bunkered down to try and maintain their existing territories but the other known Van Saar sponsored gang, the Tech Support, were scattered and their territories taken by a new gang calling themselves House Milfull. Rumours are that the new gang is sponsored by house Orlock but the guild is still trying to confirm this as fact. This new gang also skirmished with the other Cawdor sponsored gang, Gamma Charlie, in a conflict that was violent and drawn out resulting in neither gang gaining any of their opponents territories.

Despite the stalemate in that conflict, informants from house Cawdor discovered signs of xenos mutation when testing the zeal of their sponsored gang and the remnants of Gamma Charlie were supposedly purged with fire.

Unrelated, whispers have begun circulating that another new gang has either made its way to our fine settlement or has been founded from local miscreants. The guild is currently asking for informants to come forth to confirm these rumours.

Enforcer reinforcements have arrived and were involved in the purging of Gamma Charlie. We expect their increased presence will be felt soon by the local gangs.

The following gangs are currently being observed in Ashgate:

Shadow Asps	-	6
